AMA News (July 31, 2011)

My name is Rachalle Kerr and I have been racing speedway motorcycles for 14 years. I am hitting the track full force next season and am looking for some financial backing. There are no more than 12 females in the world in this particular sport, so the sight of a woman on one of these beasts is rare. There are no female classes, so I mix it up with the boys. I have constantly have women come up to me telling me how I'm an inspiration to all women, proving to them and the men that women can do anything. I primarily race in Northern California but plan on catching as many races in the Southern California area as possible. I am the top female racer in the USA and my goal is to not only be a great competitor against the men but to become the best female racer in the world. I have been presented with an amazing opportunity to get this chance. I am the first female to ever be offered a spot to race as a member of the USA Touring Team and tour Europe, racing against others from all over the world. It would be an honor to fly your banner wherever racing takes me and with your support you can help make my dreams come true.
